

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A Bluetooth data transmission system has a primary terminal, a first group of secondary terminals and a second group of secondary terminals. Data packets can be interchanged by 5 radio between the primary terminal and the secondary terminals in the first group and the secondary terminals in the second group. For connection identification with the first group and with the second group, the primary terminal has a first address and a second address.

REL/nt